This application is uses the webcam in order to detect the motion of the object which enters the screen. In addition to detecting the motion, it also generates a .csv file which records the time when the object enters and exits the frame. Using these records a graphical representation of these times is generated to give a better and interactive view of the information.